Although we have worked successfully with many boys as they are maturing into young men, the staff at Night Eagle is not trained or licensed to work with troubled boys. Our program is designed for boys who enjoy being in the outdoors and are excited about learning wilderness skills. Your honest answers to the following questions will help us as we work with your son this summer.

1. What are your son's particular strengths? In which areas does he shine?

2. Are there areas in which your son has particular difficulty? If so, is he receiving help in those areas?

3. How does your son interact with other children individually or in a group? Night Eagle cannot accommodate boys with a history of social or behavioral disorders or a history of causing problems at home or in school.

4. When a boy comes to camp from a home that is undergoing change (new location, new school, separation, etc) his experience and adjustment is often affected. Are any of these changes a part of your son's life, and if so, how is he adapting?

5. What do you particularly wish your son to gain from his experience at Night Eagle Wilderness Adventures?
